Laminating and Celloglazing

FAQ: What is Celloglazing

Celloglazing is one kind of Laminating, it is a process whereby a thin sheet of film is adhered to the printed piece by a special machine that uses both heat and pressure to apply the coating.

Celloglazing can be matt or gloss and can be single sided or double sided. It is a relatively slow process, and is more expensive than machine varnishing. The process tends to add depth to colours, robustness, and produces a rather luxurious, classy, 'expensive' look and make your printing job stay longer.

What is Web Domain Name?

For example, in the URL <http://www.yourname.com.au>, the domain name is www.pcwebopedia.com. Because the Internet is based on IP addresses, not domain names, every Web server requires a Domain Name System (DNS) server to translate domain names into IP addresses.
